LOOK OUTSIDE

DAVINE BY GURVINDER BHATIA ...

Yes, it's still winter but with a little imagination
you can feel the French sun on your face

LIGHTER THAN RED

There are ample good reasons why the southern French region of Provence is not just a popular holiday destination, but a region whose real estate is a hot commodity with Paris socialites and the Brangelinas of the world. An abundance of sun, luscious countrysides, fields of lavender and golden sunflowers, olive trees, stone-walled country estates, azure blue-sky seashores, beaches filled with beautiful people ... what's not to love?

Provence rosé is more than just a style of wine. It represents more than just a way of life. Provence ... it's a state of mind.

CHÂTEAU COUSSIN CUVÉE CESAR ROSÉ 2013, SAINTE VICTOIRE CÔTES DE PROVENCE ($60)

Produced to honour the French artist Cesar, who is best known for his sculptures fabricated from scrap metal, the wine is savoury and full with strawberry and cranberry flavours, and loads of fresh herbaceousness; full in the mid-palate and an elegant and lingering finish. Grenache, Cinsault and Syrah.
